

This picture illustrates the difference in how people invest in past and today. Most people in the past, used to like to play with company shares available on the stock exchange, but in modern times we don't have to bother monitoring the stock market because of the creation of digital currency, namely Crypto.

The picture on the left is represented by Warren Buffet, an investor who is obsessed with stocks of famous brands. On the right is Elon Musk who represents people nowadays who prefer to invest in cryptocurrencies. Even though they have different ways of investing, both can be done for profit and both are equally good.